THE RITZ-CARLTON BACHELOR GULCH

With ski-in/ski-out access on Colorado's Beaver Creek Mountain, The Ritz-Carlton Bachelor Gulch is a popular wintertime destination. Four seasons of fun await at this top-ranked resort, which also features activities and amenities like a 21,000-square-foot spa, fly fishing, golf, hiking and gourmet dining. The resort's speakeasy cigar lounge offers a heated outdoor patio where guests can enjoy imported cigars (including the exclusive $2,000 "Gurkha His Majesty's Reserve") alongside wine, spirits and beer pairings.

The grand lodge architectural style—sometimes called "parkitecture" in reference to the mountain lodges of the National Park system—gives the resort both a sense of stateliness and coziness, and its 1,800 acres of pristine terrain make it a wilderness lover's playground. Don't miss the naturalist program, which includes seasonal activities like private stargazing hikes, snowshoeing and daily group hikes. Foodies should sign up for custom cooking classes at the signature restaurant Spago. ritzcarlton.com

PARADISE BEACH NEVIS

A favorite haunt for celebrities, the Caribbean island of Nevis is small and secluded, a place of lush gardens and tropical birds. The seven-villa property Paradise Beach Nevis is still more private and exclusive. With amenities like a private pool, ocean views, round-the-clock concierge service, a personal butler and the option of a personal chef, you could be marooned here forever. Or so one can dream.

The island offers outdoor attractions like volcano hiking, swimming, horseback riding and stunning, multihued beaches of white and black sand, and is also the birthplace of U.S. founding father Alexander Hamilton. In February, golfers will converge on Nevis and nearby St. Kitts for the annual five-day St. Kitts-Nevis Admiral's Cup Pro-Am. Another island-hopping idea: Sail by catamaran to St. Barts for lunch and enjoy a quick return by plane in time for dinner on new flight offerings from Tradewind Aviation. ## ANANTARA SIAM BANGKOK

Smartphone service overseas can be a nightmare, with most U.S. providers applying expensive and difficult-to-decipher restrictions on everything from data usage to voice calls.

Luxury hotels Anantara Siam Bangkok and Anantara Riverside Bangkok launched a complimentary smartphone service to make staying connected to family and business back home easy during a visit to the Thai capital. A "handy" is offered in all guest rooms, allowing unlimited local and international calls to the United States. Unlimited 3G data connectivity also provides on-the-go access to social media apps and Wi-Fi tethering capability for other mobile devices like laptops and tablets. Travel apps for currency conversion, maps, translation and more are pre-installed for your convenience, and the hotel concierge is only a quick dial away. The handy taxi card feature details your hotel's address in Thai with a location map. At checkout, the phone is reset, removing any personal information and ensuring guests' privacy.
