EXTRAVAGANT ESCAPE

Opening in May, the lavish Reverie Saigon introduces a bold new brand of luxury and contemporary design to Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam's largest city. The 224-room hotel occupies a 39-story tower and features sweeping views of the metropolis. Visitors also enjoy European- and Indochina-inspired fine dining, a top-shelf bar and a luxurious spa. AT HOME ANYWHERE

Where would you go if you could own homes in dozens of countries around the world? Rocksure, a travel-based real estate equity fund, makes the question more than just idle speculation. Investors co-own a portfolio of fully staffed luxury villas or apartments—like a recently added vacation home in Vienna, located in a former palace that was recently added—which they can access for three weeks during the year. Once the life of the fund is over, Rocksurre sells the properties, and profits are divided among investors. No time and little expense is required to manage the properties, which gives an owner all the benefits of enjoying a second home without the challenges of maintaining it. Daily maid service and access to personal chefs and a local concierge are included. rocksure.com

BACKCOUNTRY BEAUTY

An icon of craftsmanship, Danner Boots stand out for their rugged, utilitarian beauty.

The company's line of hiking boots, which range from heavy-duty backcountry boots to lifestyle models fit for a stroll on city streets, follow a legacy of hand-crafted, U.S.-made quality that extends back to 1932. When a pair of Danner boots finally breathes its last breath, however, some boot-owners have been known to send them back to Danner's recrafting shop in Portland, Oregon for repair rather than retirement—the sole might be replaced, but the soul of the much-loved boot remains.

In the 2014 film "WILD," based on Cheryl Strayed's best-selling book about her transformative 1,100-mile hike along the Pacific Crest Trail, actress Reese Witherspoon is outfitted in Danner's Mountain Light Cascade boot. danner.com

DISCOVER CUBA

Cuba has been called a time capsule, a once-forbidden land of faded, yet singular, loveliness. Now, as trade restrictions between the U.S. and Cuba are being lifted after more than 50 years, a window has opened into this vibrant culture.

LATOUR specializes in expertly planned tours to Latin America that are led by professional bilingual Cuban guides. The nine-day, people-to-people exchange programs allow travelers to comply with U.S. travel restrictions and experience the culture in a personal and meaningful way. One of the programs "Hello Cuba" provides a wide range of historical and cultural experiences, from one-on-one meetings with artists and musicians to a visit to Finca Vigía, the winter home of Ernest Hemingway. ## ISLAND LIFE

At Banyan Tree Seychelles, sand and sun are just the start to an exquisite escape. The 37-villa resort, built on grounds that once belonged to friends Peter Sellers and George Harrison, presents a tropical paradise bursting with to do's. The Seychelles is an archipelago in the Indian Ocean known worldwide as a hotspot for sport fishing, and Banyan Tree's location on Intendance Bay offers a particularly abundant catch. Fishing trips, cooking classes, custom, open-air spa treatments or a date night under the stars can easily be arranged. Cultural experiences, shopping, swimming, snorkeling and, of course, fine dining are other enjoyable ways to while away the hours in paradise. Want to return home with a true tale of the exotic? Attend the once-a-week "Creole night" to sample the bat curry, a local delicacy made from fruit bats marinated in vinegar, curry powder, garlic, ginger, cloves and cinnamon.
